LADD, WEBSTER & CO.'S
FAMILY
SEWING MACHINES
ARE UNEQUALLED BY ANY FOR BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION
—AND—
Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE, simple in its construction, and easily kept in order; should make a TIGHT LOCK-STITCH, alike on both sides of the material, and should sew any and all materials that can be sewed.

It should be able to use cotton, thread, or silk, directly from the spool, and to sew from coarse to fine, and from thick to thin, with rapidity, and without changing the tension. It should also be able to make the tension greater or less, on both the under and upper threads, and with uniformity; and should have a straight needle; curved ones being liable to break.

The needle should have perpendicular motion—this is absolutely necessary for heavy work.

It should be able to bind with a binder, hem with a hemmer, should stitch, fell, run and gather; and always ready to work.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both sides of the work, and of using different colored thread or silk, above or below, to correspond with any two colors of cloth to be united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam, and commence sewing tightly at the first stitch, and to run easily, and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel-feed; no others are in constant contact with the work.

It should not be liable to get out of order; neither should it require a screw-driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, nor ravel.

The undersigned are General Agents for the general supervision of these unrivalled machines for Pacific States and Western Coast of Mexico.

MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 7, 1862.

The News.

The steamer Brother Jonathan brings Eastern dates including April 1st—giving us news four days from New York.

Gen. Burnside's forces have taken Newbern and Beaufort, N. C., with prisoners, cannon and military stores. The rebels burned the steamer Nashville.

Gen. Shields with his division met a superior rebel force under Gen. Johnson, near Winchester, and beat them in pitched battle with great slaughter.

The rebels are drawing in their forces from different points on the Potomac, with the design, probably, of making fight for Richmond.

Our troops have taken possession of most of the forts in East Florida, and the rebel Governor recommends an abandonment of that part of the State.

It is said that the rebels design to make a stand at Corinth, Mississippi, where it is supposed they have 70,000 men. [Corinth is a town some five miles south of the Tennessee line, west of the Alabama line, 20 miles East of Memphis and 29 miles west of Florence.]

Our army in Tennessee, at the last dates, was established at Pittsburgh Landing, on the Tennessee river, near the Alabama line.

In the battle of Winchester, a notable incident occurred. There was an Irish battalion in the rebel ranks of 150 men. They would not fire on Shield's men. A rebel regiment pressed them forward, they were ordered to "fire," but they utterly refused to obey. Between the fire of their friends and foes they lost 40 of their 150 men.

A battle was progressing between the forces of Bishop Gen. Polk, who had escaped from Columbus to Island No. 10, on which he had raised defences. Gen. Pope holds the river below and Com. Foote commands the river above. Our gunboats are throwing shells and shot among the rebels, day and night. Escape to them is hardly possible.

There are other items of news of great importance from the Eastern States.

The European news is satisfactory. England will not interfere in favor of the rebellion.

War with England.—The San Francisco Mirror insists that we shall, within a short period, have war with England. It speaks after this wise:

"When the great struggle between the United States and England shall come—as soon it must—there will be difficulty in Ireland. Ireland will rebel. Our Government will not interfere at first. But presently some Irish patriots will be 'commissioned' to appeal to us for the 'recognition of the independence' of that country. An American vessel will be offered for their conveyance to our shores. Our steamer will sail up and down the British Channel with those commissioners on board. She will not turn from her chosen path to avoid meeting with an English cruiser. She will idle by them, with the Irish patriots on her quarter deck, her band playing Yankee Doodle and the American Flag flaunting saucily from the mast-head. Let England dare to stop that vessel and seize those Commissioners! It is probable that she will dare to do that act. And then, O Ireland! the day of thy political disenthrallment draweth nigh. Then will the 'Vindicators of the people's rights and their country's honor on the scaffold and in the battle-fields of Ireland' be fully avenged. Then will Emmett and McManus be remembered in blood and in the victory of their countrymen. Then will the people of the United States reward Ireland for the service of her sons in aiding to put down and punish a wicked rebellion."

Salmon River and Cariboo Guide.—The publisher, A. Rosenfield, bookseller, Montgomery street, Cal., has sent us a small work of 36 pages, entitled, "Guide and History of Salmon River and Cariboo Mining Districts." It contains tables of modes and prices of traveling, and professes to give the distances from point to point. A vocabulary of the "Chinook Jargon" is appended.

City Election.—The election of city officers for the ensuing year comes off to-day. A strong Union ticket has been put in nomination, which will, without doubt, be elected. The candidates are selected without respect to party—all being Union men—and they seem to give general satisfaction.

The Jonathan.—The steamer Jonathan left yesterday evening for San Francisco. She takes down a large freight of apples and an assortment of merchandize.

Our columns are given up to the news from the seat of war this morning.

Dates to April 1st.

Full Details of News.

MORE FEDERAL SUCCESSES!

THREE BATTLES

ONE IN PROGRESS!

The steamer Brother Jonathan, with several hundred passengers, arrived here at half-past [illegible] Saturday morning, bringing late and important news from the East. We are indebted to Wells, Fargo & Co. for an abundant supply of papers, from which we take the following details:

News of March 17th.

Chicago, March 17.—[illegible] twelve miles from Manassas.

The steamer [illegible], engaged in carrying rebels from Columbus, was [illegible] and lost with most of her [illegible].

An amendment to the [illegible] office bill [illegible] the [illegible] steamers from San Francisco, provided that [illegible] than government [illegible].

The [illegible] have [illegible] of [illegible].

News of March 18th.

[illegible], March 18.—News from Key West [illegible] the report of the evacuation of Pensacola.

Baltimore, March 18.—Newbern, N. C. has been captured by Gen. Burnside, after a hard fight [illegible]. We captured a large quantity of [illegible] loss is reported 90 killed and 270 wounded. Newbern was defended by 10,000 rebels. [illegible] The fall of Newbern [illegible] Nashville [illegible].

Rolla, Mo., March 18.—[illegible] Halleck's [illegible] encountered the rebels in Texas County, killing 500, taking many prisoners, among them three Colonels. Our loss was about 150.

The Naval Committee have reported in favor of appropriating $15,000,000 for the construction of iron clad steamers.

Cairo, March 18.—A messenger states that our boats kept up a heavy fire on Island No. 10 yesterday. The rebels are [illegible].

[illegible]

Bill to provide for the purchase [illegible] was signed by the President.

The [illegible] Burnside [illegible] 12 miles [illegible] Newbern.

News of March 19th.

St. Louis, March 19.—Telegrams from [illegible] state that [illegible] was 1400 killed and wounded. The rebels are still retreating. There are no rebel troops in Northern Arkansas, except marauders and Pike Indians, who kill and plunder [illegible].

New York, March 19.—Further details from Newbern have been received. Commodore Rowan was in command of the fleet. On Sunday he had sunken vessels, torpedoes, and other means of [illegible] all without damage to his vessels. Two brigs, three barks and eighteen schooners were sunk by the rebels above two of their batteries. The latter were silenced and the sunken vessels passed. This was Saturday afternoon. On Sunday morning a heavy fog set in, but shortly after lifted, when the boats passed up and silenced Fort Thompson, mounting two heavy Columbiads; then Fort Huss, nine guns, was captured after brisk fighting. At Fort Lane, the only remaining fort, the rebels made but little opposition. After passing the latter, they found a large number of scows filled with rosin and turpentine, intending to tow them down and burn the gunboats. They, however, got stuck in the river. The boats then shelled the depot and [illegible], but our troops having crossed, the white flag was raised. Our navy did not lose a man.

The operations on land were [illegible] as follows: Troops landed twelve miles below Newbern, Reno's brigade in advance. Most of the troops were so anxious to land that nearly every regiment jumped into the water and waded ashore. The whole division was [illegible]. After [illegible] hours' marching they found the deserted rebel camp fires burning and breakfast untasted. Early on the morning First Brigade, [illegible] 23d, 24th, 25th and 26th Massachusetts, engaged a 20-gun battery of the rebels on the left, showered grape, canister and shell on them, also heavy musketry from infantry. The Second Brigade, comprising 21st Massachusetts, 51st New York, 51st Pennsylvania and 9th New Jersey regiments engaged them in the right, while Park's Third Brigade took position in the centre. The First Brigade bore the brunt of the battle. The 24th Massachusetts lost heavily; Maj. Stevenson and Lt. [illegible] were wounded, and Lieut. Col. Merritt and twenty three others killed. The Third Brigade, together with the Second, executed the flank movement, and when the order to charge bayonets was given, a hand to hand fight ensued of the most desperate character, [illegible] our troops drove the rebels out at the point of the bayonet. The rebels took possession of the railroad train and fled from Newbern, burning the bridges, some buildings, and a number of whisky and turpentine distilleries. The slaves had commenced pillaging, but were stopped. A number of Unionists were found in the city.

New York, March 19th.—Gen. Burnside, in a congratulatory address to the troops, says that after a tedious march, dragging their howitzers by hand through swamps and thickets, after sleepless night passed in drenching rain, they met the enemy in his chosen position, protected by strong earthworks, mounting heavy guns, and in open field themselves they conquered. He directs that each regiment engaged shall inscribe on their banners the name of Newbern.

Washington, March 19th.—A special dispatch to the New York papers says: It is positively asserted from Manassas that a number of graves of Federals killed at Bull Run, were opened by the rebels to obtain the bones to manufacture into knife handles, rings and spurs. It was said that hundreds of rebels sent skulls home, [illegible] as the [illegible] of trophies.

News of March 20th.

Cairo, March 20th.—[illegible] Foote writes that Island No. 10 is harder to conquer than Columbus. [illegible]

Fortress Monroe, March [illegible].—The rebel [illegible] was captured on board a schooner while trying [illegible].

St. Mary's, Florida, is occupied by our troops.

Cairo, March 20.—The Legislature of Tennessee, [illegible] at Memphis, has adjourned and gone—nobody knows where. The project of burning Memphis was still discussed. Men were employed as soldiers and sent to the camp of instruction by hundreds. The Union men were leaving Memphis in great numbers.

Firing continues at No. 10. There are thirty guns and 20,000 troops there. On Tuesday night the gunboat Mound City kept up a steady fire on the upper fort, preventing the rebels making their usual night repairs. The result was, that in the early morning they commenced removing the heavy guns [illegible] from the [illegible] of the fort. Large numbers were carried out and taken back [illegible]. On Monday the gunboats fired [illegible] until the mortar boats fired three hundred shells. On Tuesday the Commodore [illegible] and down, with a view [illegible] the works and [illegible]. The result was most satisfactory. As yet but one man has been killed by the enemy.

[illegible] says that [illegible] a Secretary of War [illegible] Lime Point [illegible] for it another Monitor.

The rebel buildings were burning at Aquia Creek at the last accounts.

The Federal flag floats over the fort at St. Augustine. [illegible] Jacksonville, Florida [illegible]. The Governor of Florida recommends the abandonment of East Florida.

Cairo, March 20.—The rebel forces are concentrating at Decatur, Alabama [illegible]. They are said to number 40,000 [illegible]. Federal transports [illegible].

Winchester, Va., March 20.—[illegible] Jackson [illegible] Middletown. A skirmish occurred [illegible].

New York, March 20.—A special [illegible] between the ages of 18 and 45 to form [illegible].

[illegible] Richmond [illegible].

In the Senate [illegible] Judiciary Committee [illegible] President's Message [illegible].

News of March 21st.

[illegible], March 21.

Cairo, March 21.—[illegible] Island No. 10 [illegible].

[illegible] Pope has 22 guns [illegible] Point Pleasant, below New Madrid. [illegible]

[illegible] Tennessee river [illegible] Corinth [illegible] Union Army [illegible].

Nothing has been seen or heard of the Merrimac. [illegible]

Washington, March 21.—[illegible] Treasury Department [illegible].

[illegible] Maj. Gen. Hunter's new Department [illegible].

The Heroine of Bear's Hill

A THRILLING SKETCH

(Concluded)

One tremble of the finger—one hair's breadth inaccuracy in the aim, John Horton and you will shed your own child's blood. He pulled the trigger, and closed his eyes. The report rang out loud and shrill over the the clearing. He looked—Mary stood up as before, but the bear was writhing in the agonies of death at her side!

A hurried, joyful bound and the father held her in his arms.

Oh, Mary! Mary! how much is it? Is it—?

He left the sentence unfinished save by pointing at the bleeding mass of flesh which hung useless at her shoulder. John Horton, marked the dreadful sight, and strong man and brave hearted as he was, he burst into tears.

"Never mind, father, I have saved George's life!"

And deeply grieving and sorrowing over the terrible sacrifice which was the price of his son's salvation, yet did that father rejoice that Mary, his daughter, was noble enough to make it.

It seemed that after taking the boys' dinner to them, the girl had set out on her return home. She had proceeded but a short distance when a cry from George had alarmed her, and turning, she saw a large bear, followed by two cubs, moving stealthily across the further portion of the clearing.—To turn back was her first impulse, and she did so. William who was a strong young fellow of fifteen, armed with a stick, determined upon fight rather than flight, and George, cripple though he was refused to seek his own safety by deserting his brother.

The struggle between the courageous youth and his formidable adversary was prolonged and fearful: at times the victory was on the point of being given to William, and then the superior strength of his foe overpowered him. At length a blow from the animal's huge paw, struck him upon the head and felled him to the earth. In another moment he would have been food for the cowardly cub, had not Mary, thinking only of saving her brothers, rushed forward and thrust her arm (in the hand of which she still held the wickered bottle that had contained the coffee for the boy's dinner,) down the throat of the infuriated beast.

The animal was stunned, and not a little surprised by this unexpected assault, and for an instant she was vanquished.

"For your life, George! For your life to the rock!" cried the girl, and George, weak and frightened by the scene, and accustomed as he was to obey his sister in all things, made his best progress towards the place of refuge.

It was thus John Horton found them, and in a few hurried words Mary had made him acquainted with the facts we have related.

William was uninjured with the exception of a few scratches, and the application of cold water from a neighboring spring soon restored him to consciousness.

Saddened, and yet grateful, Farmer Horton bore Mary home in his arms, for the loss of blood and the pain she suffered had enfeebled her to such an extent that she was unable to walk.

William, supporting his lame brother, followed behind. Half way across the hill they were met by Mrs. Horton, who was driven almost to frenzy at the sight of her wounded girl.

"And to think!" she exclaimed, upbraidingly, "to think, that I should have been begrudging her a little time, and she in such an awful situation! Oh dear!—poor Mary—my poor child!"

Mary Horton's mother never loved her blue eyed daughter so much in all her life as she loved her then! In happiness our powers of affection are often latent—it needs trial and affliction to make love positive, to bring it out, and ripen and perfect it! Mrs Horton's feeling towards Mary underwent this change, and the value of that child was never so apparent as when she realized how very near she had been to losing her!

Mary's arm was examined by the village physician, who immediately decided upon amputation from the shoulder, and the following morning was decided for the operation. Doctor Grover refused to perform the act of dissevering the unfortunate limb without some more experienced assistance, and his errand boy rode all night to bring up a surgeon from the city.

Doctor Moreton came promptly, and although his reputation as a skilful and successful practitioner had gone far and wide, he had scarcely seen twenty nine years.

Mary bore the tedious process without a shudder, and through it all Doctor Moreton's face expressed the most sincere admiration of her fortitude.

From that time he became a constant visitor at the red farmhouse, at first alleging his anxiety in the healing of the stump, and afterwards alleging nothing unless we excepted the expressive and pleasing language which emanated from his dark, bright eyes. Mary must have been able to translate his language, for her color came in a red flood when she met the glance of those eyes, and the heart quickened in its throbbings when he sat down by her side.

One day when the remains of the lost arm had become healed, Dr Moreton urgently and delicately proposed another arm, offering to procure it in the city. The extent of her misfortune swept over the young girl as he spoke, and without being able to repress them, her tears burst forth.

Dr Moreton put his arms around her, and drew her up close to his breast, so very close that his lips touched her forehead.

"Mary," he said, "why not let my life prove to you how happy I would be in yielding up to your services both my arms? Why not, Mary?"

She colored, and would have drawn away from him, but he did not release her, and all the while his eyes searched her face as though her soul was written there. Then he spoke again.

"Mary, your suffering has been my happiness, for it has kept me near you, are you who sacrificed so much for a brother, ready to ruin forever the peace of one who loves you more than any brother ever can? Look up, my child, and tell me!"

She did look up, and whether she answered him or not we do not know, certain it is, he only held her closer, and this time it was with her lips he kissed, and not her forehead.

When winter spread her mantle of ermine over the hills, and coated the bosom of the Winnipisseogee in an armor of ice, there was a wedding at the red farm house, and the old minister who for forty years dispensed the words of saving truth from the humble church in the village, pronounced Edward Moreton and Mary Horton one flesh.

The Doctor took his wife to his paternal home in Boston, and what she did not know of books he taught her, and found great pleasure in so doing.

George, the crippled brother, was placed at school, and afterwards at college, through Dr. Moreton's means, and is now a distinguished lawyer in a neighboring State.

William Horton, a brave and stalwart man, still tills the soil upon the shores of the blue lake and though now three noble steamers plough the bright waters, and white villages dot here and there the verdant soil, he has no wish to roam beyond the principality left him by his father.

D., late in the Hungarian Revolutionary War, Chief Physician to the 20th Regiment of Honveds, Chief Surgeon to the Military Hospital of Pesth, Hungary; the late Lecturer on Diseases of the Genito-Urinary Organs and Diseases of Women and Children, and Honorary Member of the Philadelphia College of Medicine.

☞ Particular attention paid to the treatment of diseases peculiar to Women and Children.

Office Hours—From 9 A. M. to 8 P. M.

☞ Communications strictly confidential. Permanent cure guaranteed, or no pay. Consultations by letter or otherwise FREE.

Address, DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco.

Of all diseases the first great cause
Springs from neglect of Nature's laws.

To the Afflicted:

Suffer not when a cure is guaranteed in all stages of secret diseases—Self Abuse, Nervous Debility, Syphilis in all its stages, Strictures, Gleet, Gravel, Diabetes, diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Mercurial Rheumatism, Scrofula, Pains in the Bones and Ankles, diseases of the Lungs, Throat, Nose and Eyes, Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, Cancers, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, St. Vitus Dance—and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs—such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, General Weakness, Dimness of Vision with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, Loss of Sight, Wakefulness, Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Eruptions upon the Face, Pains in the Back and Head, Female Irregularities—and all improper discharges of both sexes. It matters not from what cause the disease originated, however long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians and resisted all their means of cure. The medicines prescribed are pleasant, without odor, entirely vegetable, causing no sickness, and free from mercury or balsam. During fifteen years of practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have saved from the jaws of death many thousands who in the last stage of the above mentioned diseases had been given up [illegible] physicians, which warrants me in [illegible] who may place themselves under [illegible] permanent cure. Private diseases [illegible] to health, as they are the first [illegible] and many other diseases [illegible] human family. [illegible] a majority of cases falling into [illegible] persons, who not only [illegible] constitution, filling the system [illegible] the disease hastens the sufferer [illegible] But should the disease and [illegible] speedily, and the [illegible] on the children who are [illegible] the current of life corrupted [illegible] in scrofula, tetter, ulcers [illegible] the skin, eyes, throat and [illegible] existence of suffering and [illegible] grave.

Self-abuse is another formidable enemy to health, for nothing else in the dread catalogue of human diseases is so destructive a drain upon the system—[illegible] thousands of victims through a few years of suffering, down to an untimely grave. It destroys the nervous system, rapidly wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage, society, business and all earthly happiness, and [illegible] body and mind predisposed to consumption and [illegible] to be dreaded than death itself. With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victims of [illegible] permanent and speedy cure can be [illegible] abandonment of ruinous practices, my patients can be restored to robust vigorous health.

Irregularities and all diseases of females [illegible] on principles established by the first [illegible] sanctioned by this and [illegible]. Medicines with full directions sent to any part of the State, Oregon and Washington Territory, by patients communicating their symptoms by letter.

All business correspondence strictly confidential. Address DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, Medical Institute, Sacramento street, below Montgomery, opposite Pacific Mail Steamship Co's Office, San Francisco.

Remarkable Instance of Medical Relief.

Below we publish the certificates of three of the sufferers from the pangs of disease, who, having recovered their former health and rapidly by gratitude make known their cures and remedial agent, and their statements are authenticated by a Notary Public. The demands of society imperiously command their publicity and we commend their perusal to the attention of all afflicted.

Certificate.—The undersigned, desirous of acquainting those who may be unfortunate enough to be similarly afflicted where a permanent relief for their sufferings may be obtained, feels it his duty to thus publicly express his most sincere gratitude to Dr. L. J. Czapkay for the permanent recovery of his health. Borne down by the distressing symptoms incident to the vicious practices of uncontrollable passion in youth, depressed in body and mind, unable to perform even the most trifling duties imposed upon the ordinary avocations of life, I sought the advice of many physicians, who at first regarded my disease as of trifling importance—but alas! after a few weeks and in several instances months of their treatment, I found to my unutterable horror that instead of relief the symptoms became more alarming in their nature, and I was told by one that my disease being principally confined to the brain, medicine would be of little consequence. I despaired of ever regaining my health, strength and energy; and as a last resort and with but a faint hope, called upon Dr. Czapkay, who after examining my case prescribed some medicine which almost instantly relieved me of the dull pain and dizziness in my head. Encouraged by this result, I resolved to place myself immediately under his care, and by a strict obedience to all his directions and advice my head [illegible] I came [illegible] my ideas collected, the constant pain in my back and groins, the weakness of my limbs, the nervous reaction of my whole body on the slightest alarm or excitement, the misanthropy and evil forebodings, the self-distrust and want of confidence in others, the incapability to study and want of resolution, the frightful exciting and at times pleasurable dreams at night followed by involuntary discharges, have [illegible] and in fact in two months after having [illegible] the doctor I felt as if inspired by a new life [illegible] I contend [illegible] With the view to guard the unfortunate [illegible] the shifts of incompetent quacks I deem it a duty [illegible] this testimony to the merit and skill of Dr. [illegible] recommend him to all who may stand in need of medical advice, being assured by my own experience that under his care a radical and permanent cure will be [illegible].

MARYSVILLE, June [illegible]

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco—Sir: I have used the last of your medicine and do not think I require more as I feel very well, except that I have not got my strength yet, but soon will with [illegible]. It is just three weeks, you may recollect, since I [illegible] institute with my constitution, as I [illegible] entirely and never thought you would be able to cure me perfectly, but thought you might be able to ease the pain in my back and head, and strengthen me so that I would not get excited and tremble at everything. Now that you know what I expected you can judge of my satisfaction at my complete [illegible] symptoms and the removal of those sores and [illegible] my skin and the ulcers in my throat and the [illegible] I can hardly tell you of my [illegible] greatest [illegible] my surprise [illegible] my strength. I feel as well as any man can feel. I enclose [illegible] twenty dollars over your [illegible] think as I [illegible] cured. If you think so [illegible] you may put this letter in the [illegible] I leave me gratefully yours,
